Danish Ministry of Higher Education and Science

The Danish higher education system

Public higher education institutions in Denmark are regulated by national legislation concerning degree structures, teacher qualifications and examinations. Accreditation in higher education has changed from programme-based accreditation to institutional accreditation. Institutions are accredited by the Accreditation Council, a national independent body.

Higher education institutions

Higher education is offered by five types of higher education institutions:

1. Business Academies (Erhvervsakademi) offering professionally oriented short and first cycle degree programmes.
2. University Colleges (Professionshøjskole) offering professionally oriented first cycle degree programmes.
3. Maritime Education and Training Institutions offering professionally oriented short and first cycle degree programmes.
4. Research universities (Universitet) offering first, second and third cycle degree programmes in all academic disciplines.
5. General and specialised research universities (Universitet) offering first, second and third cycle degree programmes in academic disciplines.

University level institutions offering first, second and third cycle degree programmes in subject fields such as architecture, design, music and fine and performing arts.

Most of the higher education institutions are regulated by the Ministry of Higher Education and Science (type 1-5). The Ministry of Culture regulates a small number of higher education institutions (type 5).

Degrees in the Danish higher education system:
